Springhill Lake Elementary School Students Clean Up Nearby Stream

by Ryan Colasanti

Students from Springhill Lake Elementary participate in their annual stream cleanup.

Third through fifth grade students at Springhill Lake Elementary School got to spend 45 minutes outside on a gorgeous day and were all excited to aid in the cleanup of the small stream behind the school. “[The students] are always excited and incredibly helpful,” said Shana Sterkin, an instructional lead teacher at Springhill Lake Elementary. “They kind of feel powerful having an outlet to do something positive for the environment.”

The program started over two decades ago and both Sterkin and fifth-grade teacher Danielle Todd-Jones have taken it over since starting at the school. The event brings students outside of the classroom to participate

A Forgotten Byway

Ridge Road in Years Past: The Road to Riddle’s Bridge

by Alan Virta

Ridge Road loops around old Greenbelt from its beginning at 1 Court to its western end where it meets Crescent Road at the police station. Its length is approximately three miles. Almost all of it was built in the 1930s and 40s when Greenbelt was built. One section, however, is much older. It is all that is left of an old road that predates Greenbelt by 200 years. That was the road to Riddle’s Bridge.

Riddle’s Bridge (and before it, Riddle’s Ford) was a well-known landmark in northern Prince George’s County in the 18th and 19th centuries. It was located near the confluence of Beck’s Branch and the main Beaver Dam Creek, approximately where the Baltimore-Washington Parkway passes over Beaver Dam Road today. From the Colonial era through the 1860s, the Riddle family owned the land around the bridge, hence the name.

The road to Riddle’s Bridge was described in the 1739 and 1762 county road surveys. In the latter it was recorded as running “from Bladensburg by the late Captain Edmonston and so afterwards John Riddles.” Edmonston’s land encompassed much of Berwyn Heights. The southern section of that road is now known as Edmonston Road from Bladensburg to Greenbelt.

The Road’s Path

From the approximate site of Greenbelt High School (currently Dora Kennedy French Immersion) the road to Riddle’s Bridge then jutted northeasterly across the maze of 1950s and ’60s pavement of Kenilworth Avenue and the Beltway to climb

150 feet to the heights where the water tower now sits. The ancient sunken road winding up the hill (now closed to vehicular traffic) once saw yokes of oxen trudge up and down its path. Hogsheads of tobacco rolled down the road on the way to the port of Bladensburg. Tobacco planters, tenant

FY 2026 Budget

Council to Look at Community Development, Planning Dept.

by Diane Oberg

City Manager Josué Salmerón’s proposed budget for Fiscal Year 2026 (FY 2026), which begins July 1, allocates $1.404 million to the Department of Planning and Community Development, up from $1.393 million in FY 2025, an increase of 3.3 percent. This represents 3.5 percent of total proposed city expenditures.

On April 16, the Greenbelt City Council discussed this budget and received some general budget updates from Salmerón and City Treasurer Bertha Gaymon. The department’s expenditures are partially offset by $970,000 in fees such as street

“We are all engaged in a great battle to protect our democracy, our constitution, our rule of law.” Those words opened a statement from U.S. Senator Chris Van Hollen that he wrote to constituents meeting in Greenbelt Saturday, April 19. A campaign staffer read the statement aloud in place of

Van Hollen, who had just arrived back in the U.S. the day before the meeting.

He had been in El Salvador where, on April 17, he met with Kilmar Abrego Garcia, a Prince George’s County resident who was mistakenly deported by President Donald Trump’s administration to the Terrorism Confinement Center, the notorious mega-prison built under Salvadoran President Nayib Bukele.

Van Hollen’s words were shared during State Senator Alonzo T. Washington’s annual post-legislative session meeting held in the Greenbelt Library, Juvenile Delinquency Or Casting Aspersions?

The article, Some Residents Reflect on Juvenile Delinquency as More Wheels Stolen (April 17 issue), connects a recent flurry of thefts that have occurred in the geographic proximity of a high school to juvenile delinquency. The result is opinion, not news. It perpetuates stereotypes and promotes suspicion at the same time as reporting that there is no evidence suggesting who has been perpetrating these crimes.

These neighborhoods are, not coincidentally to the consideration of significant auto thefts, adjacent to the junctions of two interstate highways (295 and 495) and have direct access to two highly trafficked thoroughfares (Md. 193 and Hanover Parkway). That is more relevant to the issue of auto parts theft than proximity to a local high school.

Thanks

The Greenbelt Makerspace and Tool Library would like to thank the community, the Granite Building and especially our 18 volunteers for supporting Saturday's very successful Repair Cafe. We rescued over 40 broken items (lamps, jewelry, clothing, furniture, bikes, computers, etc.) with just a few that were too broken to repair. We will hold another Repair Cafe on July 19. Mark your calendars to be part of this cooperative effort to keep things out of the landfill.

Absence of Agency On Earth Day

Goddard Space Flight Center did not celebrate Earth Day this year. It's usually a big event drawing many visitors inside the gates. Across the lawns, there have been booths of exhibits and hands-on activities. Through a special telescope, you could look right at the Sun, even see it changing. There were even more ways of watching Earth: in the past and present, and where it is projected to go. You could watch the Earth changing.

But not this year. Even NASA Headquarters was a no-show. The short Earth Day message released by NASA this year celebrates NASA's efforts to mitigate natural disasters. It describes how NASA's observations of Earth help farmers, fishermen and diggers further exploit it. Concern for the planet's state might be there deep in the background but the word "climate" does not appear even once. With no mention of the changing climate, there is no Earth Day. NASA simply did not show up for Earth Day this year.

But the White House did. The message: "On Earth Day, We Finally Have a President Who Follows Science," claims praise for Trump in helping the environment. It describes how allowing more logging helps reduce wildfires. It claims wind turbines kill birds, and at a rate so high that the cost outweighs the benefits. And it ends the "forced use" of paper straws.

Last year, by contrast, NASA gave an Earth Day media briefing in which the message from the NASA Administrator, retired astronaut Bill Nelson, described NASA's important role right from the start of Earth Day in 1970. He described the impact of the photo of Earthrise taken by the astronauts. He described the precious "pale-blue dot" seen by Voyager as it left the Solar System. He described environmental degradation he personally observed from the Space Shuttle. He stated that NASA was also a climate agency. And then he described the next generation of Earth-observing satellites.

This is the same next generation of Earth observations that the Trump administration aims to cut. In fact, Trump aims to cut the whole NASA Science Mission Directorate by 50 percent. That could force the closure of Goddard Space Flight Center. On Earth Day 2025, NASA does not mention climate change, does not claim to be a climate agency and may be claiming little agency at all.

Catherine Dorsch-Beller

Catherine Dorsch-Beller

Catherine Dorsch-Beller was born on November 9, 1944, and lost her courageous battle to ALS on April 4, 2025.

Catherine was born and raised in the District of Columbia. She attended St. Martin's and St. Aloysius grade schools and Notre Dame Academy High School on North Capitol Street. She diligently worked for Washington Hospital Center Radiology Department as chief technologist, where she also played on the department softball team and could usually be found sitting in right field. Later she joined her husband in their commercial glass business. She lived life to the fullest and had the chance to enjoy traveling with friends and family.

Married to James L. Beller, who died on December 2, 2001, Catherine lived in Greenbelt's Windsor Green community. She was an active member and leader there for over four decades and served on the board, architectural control committee, finance committee and landscaping committee. On a summer afternoon one would find Catherine enjoying a dip and fellowship with others at the community pool.

Also a Windsor Green neighborhood watch captain, she kept her block together. She was a role model to her neighbors and their young children. Every year she would bake cookies and prepare Easter baskets for them. Catherine loved to garden and had the best-kept yard and house on the block. She had a sense of humor and was brutally honest, which was always so refreshing. As a good friend, she was ready to listen and lend a willing hand. A strong woman of faith, she was actively involved in church and the greater community.

Catherine leaves behind a loving sister and three brothers, two sisters-in-law and four nieces, one nephew, five great-nieces and two great-nephews. She will be greatly missed.

Catherine's memorial service will be held on Saturday, May 17 at St. Ambrose Catholic Church, 3107 63rd Street, Cheverly. In lieu of flowers, consider a donation to the ALS Association at als.org.

Ronald Kolbe

Ronald L. Kolbe

Former Greenbelter Ronald (Ron) Lynn Kolbe, 74, of Durham, N.H., died on April 12, 2025, at Beth Israel Deaconess Hospital, Boston, with his wife and daughter by his side after a hard-fought battle with pancreatic cancer.

He was born June 3, 1950, in Washington, D.C., the son of the late Casper Maul Kolbe and Ruthlee Cade Kolbe. As a child he moved with his family to Empire Place in Greenbelt. He was a member of Mowatt Memorial United Methodist Church and joined Boy Scout Troop 746 there. He enjoyed swimming at the Greenbelt pool and other community activities. He attended North End Elementary School, Greenbelt Junior High School and High Point High School. He received a bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering from the University of Maryland, College Park, a master's in nuclear engineering from Purdue University and a Ph.D. in computational fluid dynamics from the University of Tennessee Space Institute.

Over the course of his career, he worked for many public and private institutions, including the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy, Shepherd University, Northrop Grumman, NASA and the U.S. Naval Research Laboratory. He was a member of multiple professional societies.

After retiring, Ron and his wife, Margaret, moved to Durham, where they were active members of St. John's United Methodist Church. There he sang in the choir, assisted with dinners for the homeless and helped in the church gardens. He was also a popular substitute at the local high schools.

Ron is survived by his spouse of 41 years, Margaret Garrett Kolbe; his daughter, Katharine (Kate) Mellitz and her husband Daniel Mellitz and his two granddaughters, Mackenzie and Abigail; his sisters, Elizabeth (Betty) Kolbe and husband John Moore and Carolyn Bray and husband Peter Bray; and numerous nieces and nephews and friends.

In lieu of flowers, memorial contributions may be made in his name to the Pancreatic Cancer Foundation under the American Cancer Society at P.O. Box 6704, Hagerstown, MD 21741 or on the website for the Pancreatic Cancer Foundation.

A local memorial service will be held on Saturday, May 3 at 11 a.m. at Friendship United Methodist Church in southern Anne Arundel County. Lunch will follow the service. Interment will be a private service at a later date.

Special Election

Voting in the County Special Election for County Executive

by Anna Bedford-Dillow

Residents should have begun receiving mail-in ballot packets for the special election for a new county executive, which were sent out April 19. Aisha Braveboy, current State’s Attorney for Prince George’s County, is the Democratic nominee and Jonathan White, a U.S. Air Force veteran, is the Republican nominee.

Every voter will receive a mail-in ballot, unlike other general elections when mail-in ballots had to be specifically requested. Or you can vote in person if you prefer during early voting or on Election Day. The special election was precipitated by the election of former county executive Angela Alsobrooks to the U.S. Senate, a seat vacated by the retirement of Ben Cardin (D).

Ballot Drop-off Option

You can return your ballot by mail or drop it off at a ballot drop box. The Maryland Board of Elections advises that the drop boxes are very secure, with only trusted election officials having access and ballots picked up every day. Drop boxes are not affiliated with the U.S. Postal Service. There are several ballot drop-off locations in the county, though none in Greenbelt. A list of locations is included with the ballots, with the nearest being at Good Luck Community Center in Lanham, approximately three miles away, and Lakeland College Park Community Center, approximately four miles away.

The deadline to register to

vote in this election is Tuesday, May 13 and the last day to request a ballot if you did not receive one is Tuesday, May 27. However, you may also register to vote or update your voter registration information in person during early voting or on Election Day.

Voting In Person

Early voting will take place May 28 through June 2, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday to Saturday and Sundays, noon to 6 p.m. Election Day is Tuesday, June 3 and voting places will be open 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Our nearest voting center for both early voting and election day voting is College Park City Hall, 7401 Baltimore Avenue, Suite 201, College Park.

Voting by Mail

To vote by mail you can use the prepaid envelope found in the packet. Due to potential backlogs and delays with the U.S. Postal Service, voters opting to vote by mail are urged to mail their ballot as soon as possible. All ballots must be postmarked on or before Election Day, June 3.

City Election

How and When to Register To Vote in 2025 City Election

by Ryan Colasanti

The City of Greenbelt election is scheduled for November 4, but residents intent on voting can start the registration process now to avoid any last-minute errands before Election Day. This year Greenbelt will have a unique election, with noncitizens now being eligible to vote for the first time in city history. The registration process differs for anyone not a U.S. citizen.

Process for Noncitizens

Noncitizens are required to register in person with the city clerk via a paper form. Potential voters will have to prove they are 16 years or older at the time of the election and that they reside within the City of Greenbelt. Online registration is not available for noncitizen voters. The deadline to register to vote with the city is Tuesday, October 14, and after completing the registration process, noncitizens are able to vote only in the city’s election.

Process for Citizens

U.S. citizens who reside in Greenbelt have to register with the county either online, in person or by mail if they haven’t done so already. The deadline to register or make updates to addresses or personal information is October 6, the fifth Monday before the election, before 4:30 p.m. Citizens are able to register or update their information online using Maryland’s Online Voter Registration system (OLVR) found on the Maryland State Board of Elections website or by using this link: <https://tinyurl.com/4z8pebpj>. If a resident wishes to register using a paper registration form, they must print the form from the Prince George’s County Board of Elections at <https://tinyurl.com/f7aa94y8>, acquire one from the city clerk’s office or contact the county Board of Elections to request a form be mailed to their address. Paper forms must be mailed to the County Board of Elections at 1100 Mercantile Lane, Suite 115A, Largo, MD 20774. Citizens that don’t have a valid Maryland license or Motor Vehicle Administration-issued ID card must fill out a paper registration form.

Those ineligible to register to vote and participate in the election are persons who were convicted of buying or selling votes, deemed incapable of voting by a court of law due to a mental disability or are currently imprisoned or paroled on a felony conviction, according to the State Board of Elections website. Otherwise, all city residents who are at least 16 years old at the time of the upcoming election are eligible to vote.

Process for Students

High school students who meet the 16-years-old-or-older requirement are among those eligible to vote. For student voters, the same registration process applies, with citizens needing to register with the county and non-citizens in person with the city clerk. College students attending the University of Maryland or other schools around the area are also eligible to vote as long as their Greenbelt address is their legal domicile.

To find more information on the city election – including a timeline of events – residents can use the Election Information tab on the City of Greenbelt’s website at <https://tinyurl.com/yc2kk7kp>. More information for registering with the county can be found at <https://tinyurl.com/shpv2jx2>. Representatives from the City of Greenbelt will also be at some local events providing attendees with election information and guidance on how to register to vote. Residents can call the city clerk’s office at 301-474-3870 with immediate concerns or questions.

45th Annual CROP Walk Helps Local Food Banks

On Sunday, May 4, members of area churches, including Greenbelt Community Church and Catholic Community of Greenbelt, will walk in the 45th annual Hyattsville CROP Hunger Walk, this year at David C. Driskell Park in Hyattsville. Funds raised will be divided with 25 percent going to Help by Phone, which stocks local food pantries, and 75 percent to Church World Service (CWS), which expects to be focusing funds on refugee assistance.

CWS has partnered with the U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID) for years. As USAID funding and programs are stopped globally in some communities, CWS is now the only agency there to help.

To join the walk or sponsor a walker, contact Naomi Littlefield at 202-246-1072 or littlefieldnaomi@gmail.com or visit events.crophungerwalk.org/crophungerwalks/team/greenbelt-community-church-greenbelt-md.

Residents Work Toward Consensus Ahead of Final Armory Meeting

by Ryan Colasanti

On Tuesday, April 22, about 20 Greenbelt residents gathered at the Municipal Building for the third of four weekly meetings to aid in the design of the Greenbelt Armory site.

Residents were welcomed to the charrette meeting with an agenda and three green dots that they used at the end of the meeting to mark design sketches they liked. Food and drinks were provided and a raffle with gift cards as prizes ended the evening.

There were four tables for attendee seating. Each table was equipped with a site map and thin paper sheets that members of the AMAR Group LLC used to make sketches of different designs based on the suggestions of residents at the table. Although there were four tables, most residents gathered around two of them, providing ideas to the AMAR illustrators and drawing in their own suggestions. At the end of the meeting, there were about seven designs for residents to peruse and vote on by placing on their favorites the three green dots handed out at the beginning of the meeting. The design concept that received the most dots was one that incorporated both municipal and residential components.

Housing

All but one of the design concepts created during the meeting included some form of housing. The desire for housing, especially intentional living and affordable living places, was brought up at the first meeting and has been a priority for residents to this point. Most of the designs the groups created placed a municipal building at the front of the property and then housing in the back. This design strove to create a welcoming government building as the gateway to Greenbelt with the functionality of housing tucked away from the foreground. One of the two groups mapped out exactly the kind of housing property they desired, complete with first floor parking, meeting spaces and a green roof with solar panels to take advantage of the site's exposure to sunlight. Some also added that with a new municipal building it would allow some city offices to move out of the Community Center and the current Municipal Building.

The Anacostia River

In addition to the preference for incorporating housing, the desire for the site to retain a natural feel continued into this third meeting. Those wanting to retain areas of nature on the site were happy to hear that because an Anacostia River tributary runs on the property there are specific areas that can't be developed. A portion of that restricted area can be developed – part of the existing parking lot – because it was created before the current restrictions were in place. But for the most part, much of the currently undeveloped site will remain untouched. The thought from members of the AMAR Group and residents alike was to landscape that area and create biking and walking trails for residents to enjoy. The idea was universally welcomed among the group and followed through on the wish from the first meeting when residents voted most favorably for the Art Deco design.

Members of the AMAR Group sketch different designs based on the suggestions of residents around the tables.

Fire Station

The desire for a new fire station on the property was not a prominent part of the discussions. Only one sketch included the proposition and that sketch received zero green dots, meaning no one at the meeting liked the design sufficiently to choose it. That specific design also included a hotel and an engineered lake that residents didn't care for, which may have contributed to the lack of "likes," but Taylora Imes-Thomas of the AMAR Group said that discussions about putting a fire station or police station on the property weren't brought up much from residents in the second meeting. While the idea of a fire station was discussed toward the end of the meeting, one resident pondered the need for a new fire station when the city lacks staff to fill the current station, referring to the removal of career firefighters from the area (see June 13, 2024 and October 17, 2024 issues).

There was one final community meeting scheduled to discuss plans for the Armory on Tuesday, April 29. Imes-Thomas said members of the AMAR Group would compile their notes and residents' comments from the first three meetings to develop three to six complete renderings for the site based on those notes. Residents at the final meeting were to vote on those renderings and the style elements and focus with the hope of coming to a consensus to present to the city council in the future.

Food Distribution in Greenbelt

by Bonnie Schrack

The News Review recently reported that the Capital Area Food Bank will be holding new pop-up food distributions for those affected by cuts to the federal government's workforce and funding. They are being held Thursday evenings and Saturday mornings, the nearest location being in Lanham. See the April 3 issue for more details.

In Greenbelt there are two ongoing programs already offering food to those in need, one provided by the City of Greenbelt through the Greenbelt Assistance in Living (GAIL) program, and the other by St. Hugh's Catholic Church.

Produce Distributions

The monthly produce distributions administered by GAIL are held in two locations, both on the third Thursday of every month. One distribution location, operating out of GAIL offices in the lower level of the Community Center, is open to all Greenbelt residents, regardless of where they may live, with food supplied by the Capital Area Food Bank. Each household does need to register in advance to get a card, which can be done by stopping by the GAIL offices from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Mondays through Thursdays, or by contacting Brendy Garcia at bgarcia@greenbeltmd.gov or 240-424-0302.

The distribution at the Springhill Lake Recreation Center is only able to accommodate 75 households, who must be residents of Greenbelt West due to the limitations of the city's transport capacity to bring food to that location. Participants need to contact Garcia at GAIL to register. GAIL welcomes volunteers to assist in these programs.

Currently, there have not been interruptions or a decrease in the food available through GAIL. The News Review will report on whether planned cutbacks in USDA food deliveries to the Capital Area Food Bank affect availability in the future.

Church Food Pantries

Greenbelters are also able to obtain food assistance from the St. Hugh's food pantry. This food comes from several sources: bags of groceries purchased by customers at the Co-op Supermarket, donations of food and money by St. Hugh's church parishioners and others, and food collected from residents of the Greenbelt community by Random Unselfish Acts of Kindness (RUAK) for the PORCH project.

The church asks that those receiving food be residents of Greenbelt, but does not require proof of residence. They stress that people of all faiths, beliefs and backgrounds are welcome to receive food. The pantry operates from the church offices from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., Monday through Thursday. They request that people call 301-474-4327, if possible, to let them know before stopping by. Each household can receive a bag of nonperishable food items once a week. A limited amount of fresh food is available once a month to those in need, by appointment.

Restoration Church has until recently also offered a food pantry to Greenbelters but this was discontinued because of their move to Beltsville. Their food bank is now open at the new location, 5600 Sunnyside Avenue, on Wednesdays from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and on the second and fourth Sundays of the month from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

My origins go back to a KY tobacco farm; being the first in my family to attend college; ultimately earning a PhD. I have taught History at the University of Maryland for 23 years. As a GHI Member, I have served on the Architectural Review Committee and several task forces. I also served on the Friends of Old Greenbelt Museum board. Living in Takoma Park for over 10 years I was President of a local preservation non-profit; also served on city committees, and the boards of community organizations such as the Old Takoma Business Association. At UMD, I have served numerous terms in the University Senate; also given service to my college as well as my department. Actively serving my communities is a priority for me. As a member of GHI’s Board of Directors, I have a view of the Co-op that is significantly different than the ordinary member’s view, seeing what a complex community we have here. On the Board, I have worked to support/advance the concerns of members such as the increasing amount of Co-op fees, real estate taxes, and insurance costs. A realistic approach to Co-op finances is an important issue for me. I also work to resolve controversial issues such as yard inspections in a way that treats the membership fairly.

Candidates for GHI Election

These GHI members have formally indicated their agreement to serve if elected, and provided these biographical sketches to the Nominations & Elections (N&E) Committee. Electronic ballots for Board of Directors and Audit Committee will be cast online and in-person, described above. Members of our 9-member board are elected to staggered 2-year terms, with 5 directors elected in odd years and 4 in even years. However, since a vacancy arose when a Board member resigned in April, there are 6 open Board positions this year. Because GHI Members elect the N&E Committee during the annual meeting, N&E is not on the electronic ballot. Candidates are listed here in alphabetical order by last name, but each electronic ballot will list candidates in random order.

Records Retention and Handbook Taskforces and chaired the Yardi Member Portal Taskforce. She has also served as the Board liaison for the Companion Animal Committee. She identifies her most important role as a director is to serve as an advocate for cooperative members and to act in their best interests.

Nancy has lived in GHI for 16 years. She and her adopted dog Gus enjoy the walkways, the woodlands, the parks and the friendliness of the residents. She holds a Masters in Administration focusing on nonprofit management and has worked as an administrator and executive assistant for several nonprofits, including the National Geographic Society, the National Women’s Law Center and the Society for Science and the Public. Nancy has volunteered at several animal rescues, rehabilitating raptors and reptiles, horses and parrots. She has also served on several nonprofit boards.

Now retired, she looks to continue contributing her knowledge and experience to the GHI Board and the community to ensure that GHI remains a thriving, prosperous and enjoyable place to live.

Chuck Hess

42 Court Ridge

Chuck Hess has lived in GHI for over 40 years. He is a CPA specializing in Income Taxation. He has been active in GHI, being elected to both the Audit Committee and Board of Directors and serving on the Buildings, Finance, Investment, and many other Committees. He is the Chair of both the Finance and the Investment Committees, both which are tasked with oversight of the $16 million budget and over $40 million in Audited assets.

He has served on the Board of Directors for over 30 years, most of them as Treasurer.

He served on the Board of Directors and the Building Committee through the $25 Million HIP program without any borrowing, because of the Replacement Reserve program he helped create. He is looking towards the upcoming Plumbing Replacement Program. He is determined to see that it is done professionally with as little disruption as possible to our daily lives.

His knowledge and efforts in revising GHI’s Investment policy have earned millions in extra income over the prior practice.

He believes that GHI is among the best co-ops in the world and appreciates the new ideas and views of the new members of the Board and also believes that his institutional memory and financial knowledge will help the co-op maintain high standards for providing an honest, well-run, efficient, and compassionate home for all its members.

Paul Kapfer

6 Court Hillside

Paul Kapfer has practiced law for over 30 years—20 in the military and more recently as general counsel for an affordable housing owner and developer headquartered in Chicago. He works there and remotely from his GHI unit. Paul is currently serving on the GHI Board of Directors and Finance Committee (2023–2025), where he has advocated for greater revenue generation to offset the inevitable rise in monthly member fees. On the Finance Committee, Paul helped design a loan program to assist member relocations made necessary by pipe replacements in GHI units. Recently, Paul agreed to serve on a task force working to reach a global solution for the replacement of Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission (WSSC) pipes throughout GHI.

Paul is an avid, if aging, hiker and biker and heads for Shenandoah National Park at every opportunity. In his GHI yard, he loves vegetable gardening and finding shade-loving shrubs and replacement saplings for old-growth trees sacrificed to the insurance underwriters.

Philip Larkin

19 Court Ridge

A lifelong Greenbelter, I have lived in GHI—on and off, at three different units—for roughly 20 years. I am seeking a second two-year term on the GHI Board of Directors.

I have extensive experience managing programs and projects, leading strategic planning activities, and overseeing contracts, particularly as a civil servant at NASA. I’ve also worked side jobs as a handyman, and I know building trades and GHI home construction well.

Looking back on my first term, I take pride in helping stand up the renewed Member Engagement Committee, digging in on the details of the Pipe Replacement Program, and asking the occasionally uncomfortable question about expenditures or standing procedures. It has been particularly rewarding to meet so many of our neighbors, GHI and city staff, and fellow volunteers.

If reelected, I will remain focused on three main questions:

1. Resiliency: How do we enable durable solutions that reflect the careful planning of Greenbelt’s founding and safeguard against future vulnerabilities? Further, how can we cooperatively bolster the resiliency of our members?
2. Efficiency: More than just saving money, are there functions that GHI has taken on that could be modified? How do we maintain a cooperative model that emphasizes owner responsibility?
3. Engagement: How do we temper the sometimes-adversarial relationship between members and GHI and renew a collective commitment to our Co-op?

Thanks for your confidence in 2023. I hope to continue to serve.

Arts Advisory Board Meeting May 6

The Greenbelt Arts Advisory Board will meet on Tuesday, May 6 at 7 p.m. on Zoom. Discussion topics will include upcoming event planning and proposed multilingual signage. A donation box is located outside the Fellowship Center (the small building behind the church) for people to drop off sneakers at any time.

Community Orchestra Welcomes Musicians

Greenbelt Community Orchestra rehearses on Thursday evenings at the Community Center and welcomes new members, especially string players and low brass. For more information, visit GreenbeltOrchestra.org.

Victoria Whitten 10 Court Plateau

A New Hampshire native, Victoria holds a degree in English from Colby-Sawyer College and a master's in English Literature from the University of Maryland. Victoria is seeking a position on the GHI Board of Directors to help sustain and strengthen the cooperative's values into 2027. She believes the co-op can help foster a strong, vibrant community where neighbors support each other in uncertain times. Her experience in nurturing and developing an inclusive community dates to her undergraduate years, where she served on the Academic Success & Inclusion Board, ensuring equitable access to resources for international students. Additionally, she founded and expanded academic tutoring programs, growing the programs to serve over 300 students weekly.

Professionally; Victoria has eight years of project management experience and a decade of expertise developing safety, regulatory, and compliance training for agencies such as CMS, USAID, CDC, and DHS. She works for a Baltimore-based tech company focused on improving government services. Her experience managing multi-stakeholder projects, navigating complex regulations, and implementing scalable solutions aligns well with the responsibilities of the GHI Board. Victoria believes a strong cooperative thrives on active engagement, shared responsibility, inclusivity, and creative problem-solving. If elected, she will use a collaborative approach to uphold these principles and tackle complex problems, ensuring GHI remains a place where every member feels supported, heard, and empowered.

Audit Committee (All 3 positions up for election for 1-year terms)

Stephen Holland 56 Court Ridge

I have lived in Greenbelt since 2003 and spent most of those years in GHI. I was attracted to Greenbelt by its green spaces and walkability, and I noted the pride people take in their community and their willingness to make it a better place. GHI's tradition of long-term planning made it a very appealing place to live. During the past decade I have served on GHI's Board of Directors, various committees, and several task forces; I have also volunteered with several community groups. My time on the GHI Finance and Investment committees has given me insight into GHI's budget process and some of the financial challenges we will face in the next several years. In the larger Greenbelt community, I was treasurer of the Greenbelt Soccer Alliance for several years and am active in local efforts to improve public transit, an essential service if GHI intends to pursue aging-in-place plans for our members. I work at NASA/Goddard as a scientist and programmer. My job involves analyzing large, complex data sets and finding practical solutions to unexpected problems. I would like the opportunity to continue to apply these skills to helping our cooperative by serving a second term on the Audit Committee.

Bill Jones 15 Court Ridge

When I retired as a math and computer science professor in 2004, my wife and I asked our daughter where we should relocate to be near her. She brought us to Greenbelt and said GHI is the best place to live around here. And she was right—it is the best place to live in the area, and not just because our daughter now lives just a few courts away.

I have served on the Audit Committee since 2022, and on the Finance Committee and Investment Committee since 2006. I served on GHI's Board from 2011 to 2021. I am a proud bean-counter, working to make sure that our members get the best value for their coop fees:

- I was instrumental in putting GHI's Fee Deferral Program in place for those of us on a low fixed income.
- I helped in the H.I.P. program, meeting with members of each cohort to help them understand what their choices are, and make the most cost-effective decision for their unit.
- I used my experience in Math and Finance to help make improvements in GHI's long-term reserve study.

Outside of GHI, I've been on the Co-op Board, NDC Membership Chair, and Treasurer of Greenbelt Refugee Aid Committee. I've also volunteered at Greenbelt Elementary School and G.A.C.

I ask you to vote for me so I can continue working to keep our co-op fees from increasing too much, so that GHI can continue to be the best place to live.

Carl Sanders 2 Court Southway

I've lived in a GHI with my wife and 6-year old son for coming up on three years. In the time we've lived here, we've been lucky to be involved with the many local community schools, organizations, and activities. I would love to contribute to the community on the GHI Audit Committee.

I have years of experience in various leadership and volunteer positions in churches, pre-schools, and community organizations in our previous homes in St. Louis and Bloomington, Indiana. I am a strong believer in good governance and fair-minded decision-making.

I currently work as an economist for the U.S. Census Bureau, with previous experience teaching college level Economics. Our family hopes to stay in GHI long-term and looks forward to what the future brings!

Singing Along at Greenbelt's Fifth Annual Ukulele Picnic

by Will Hammann

Guitar-shaped cases gleamed on the backs of women strolling through Roosevelt Center on April 6. I followed them into the Community Center to a room filled end to end with a ukulele orchestra roughly 20 women strong, joined by several men and children, all seated in a semi-circle facing the front of the room. There was no music yet, but my ears were met with cheerful chatter and the sound of chairs and stands being dragged across the floor.

Front and center behind a microphone stand stood yet another ukulele-wielding musician, whom I approached. This was music and arts teacher and Greenbelt Artist-in-Residence Rachel Ann Cross, who said I could interview her on one condition: "Only if you sing along."

I agreed, so I grabbed a songbook and took a seat. The songbooks, which Cross compiled herself for the picnics, have a reference page for chords with tabulation, and lyrics and chords for 20 songs from a variety of genres like pop, R&B, folk and rock.

Throughout the hour-long event, Cross sang and played her own ukulele, guiding her students and the others from verse to verse and song to song, starting with The Lion Sleeps Tonight.

Most of the group were students of Cross, but they were joined by friends, family and anyone else who found themselves in the room, like myself. All were welcome to play their ukulele or guitar or just sing along.

People in the room next door for Greenbelt's Artful Afternoon turned their heads and even walked over to listen, and were swiftly offered a seat by Cross to join in if they'd like.

This was what Cross calls the Ukulele Picnic, an event sponsored by the City of Greenbelt. Cross started hosting it in 2020, when she was forced by the pandemic to find an outdoor alternative to the recitals that she normally hosted for her students who would invite friends and family.

The tradition carried on annually despite pandemic restrictions fading away and this year marked the fifth. It was also the first to be held indoors due to potential rain, but no less of an occasion.

"They just keep getting better and better because my ukulele students keep practicing," said Cross, who added that the picnic "is a way for me to celebrate them and to invite other people into the Community Center."

Cross said that there are two or three groups of her students who play regularly among themselves and in public for different events. One such group started meeting and playing together in the fall of 2018 while studying under Cross, according to Jan Morrow, Judy Kendall and Laura Bonkosky, members of the group who were at the picnic. "We have all gotten so much better," said Kendall. "We started with Rachel, and then we were sort of advanced beginners, and then by playing together, you get better."

The group started playing outside after the onset of the pandemic, aptly naming themselves the Pandemic Sisters. Now that the pandemic has passed, they're called the Zookulele Collective & Dave. They have nine members including Dave Meng, who plays guitar alongside the ukulelists.

The group plays at various venues and community events, such as the Berwyn Heights Porch Concert this past Saturday. They'll perform next at the Greenbelt Farmers Market on May 18 from noon to 2 p.m. "Keep your eyes peeled," said Bonkosky.

The picnic ended with Aloha 'oe, a Hawaiian farewell song with lyrics serving as a reminder that the picnic would return next year. "One fond embrace, before I now depart, until we meet again."

permits, licenses and permits, alarms and false alarms, and municipal infractions. Currently the department has 10 authorized positions. In balancing the budget, Salmerón’s proposed budget calls for not filling the vacant supervisory inspector position.

Director of Planning and Community Development Terri Hruby provided a brief recap of her department’s activities and accomplishments. She said they had conducted almost 1,000 single family rental inspections and over 3,000 rental apartment inspections and collected more in commercial licensing fees than expected due to better data, policies, procedures and quality control. On the good news/bad news front, they collected $20,000 in fines for municipal infractions, well over the budgeted $7,000. However, this windfall was due to unfortunate “challenges” such as loss of heat at two apartment complexes and trash issues. Hruby anticipates receiving a grant for the city’s Vision Zero activities, which seek to eliminate deaths and serious injuries to motorists, bicyclists and pedestrians.

Hruby reported that the request for proposals for a contractor to prepare the 90 percent engineering plan for the Hanover Parkway off-road bicycle facility was to be issued the following week (update: it was and is posted on the department’s website). Finally, rapid flashing pedestrian crossing beacons, such as have been used at the Crescent Road crosswalk near St. Hugh’s church, have been installed on Hanover Parkway and Cherrywood Lane.

Objectives

The budget document lists the department’s management objectives for FY 2026. The department will seek grants to implement the city’s strategic wayfinding plan for design and implementation of the Cherrywood Lane Complete and Green Street retrofit project and for a traffic calming study for the center city area. In addition, they will manage pedestrian and bicycle improvements, the bus stop construction project, complete a parking study and establish policy with regard to crosswalks, intersections, driveways and bus stops as well as oversee the completion of the cemetery preservation master plan. On the community development side, objectives include maintaining a 90 percent compliance rate with municipal codes, updating sections of the city code and developing an on-line payment system.

7010 Greenbelt Road

Hruby provided a quick update on the construction of 95 senior condominium units at 7010 Greenbelt Road. That property, located near the Greenbelt Armory and University Square, has recently been cleared and is attracting attention. She said that the first building is scheduled for completion in the fall of 2026. The entire complex is scheduled to be completed during the summer of 2028.

EV Chargers

Salmerón reported that electric vehicle charging stations should be installed behind the library by the end of this June. It was determined that the city could tie into an existing transformer, rather than having to obtain a new one.

Boiler Systems

Council asked about the problems encountered this past winter when there were prolonged heating outages at two apartment complexes inside the city limits. Both complexes use boiler systems and it took a long time to get those systems back in operation. One of those systems was still using an original 1938 boiler, per Assistant Director for Community Development Gilberto Cabrera. One complex, Parkway Gardens, still has at least one of those old boilers.

Hruby told council that the state, not the city, is responsible for inspecting and certifying heating systems. To try to head off problems in the future, though, Cabrera said that city inspectors will contact property owners six months before the start of heating season on September 15 to obtain a copy of the certification and report.

Fees

Hruby also plans to look at the schedule of fees charged by the city based on new state legislation that raised the ceiling on those fees. The current limit has been in place for many years, she said, so she wants to examine the entire fee structure in addition to the actual individual rates charged. For example, for hotels, the city currently charges a flat fee, rather than a fee per room. She does not know the history of why the fee was set in this manner but noted that the city appears to be the only municipality that uses a flat fee. Mayor Emmett Jordan cautioned that hotels have not yet fully recovered from the pandemic so council will have to balance the city’s need for revenue against the anticipated impact on businesses. Hruby noted that the fees also have to be examined relative to the city’s costs, as the fees are supposed to be a cost-recovery measure, not a revenue generator.

Budget Updates

Salmerón noted that he and city staff are continuing to monitor economic conditions and are identifying ways to adjust to unanticipated changes. They have now received information that the state has received over 60 requests for abatements to property tax assessments with a total value of over $2 million. Gaymon reported that the city has set aside $2.1 million for abatements. The appeal process typically takes 18 months, she said. Another uncertainty is that Prince George’s County has not yet passed its budget. Changes to this budget could impact the city.

where over a dozen local and state officials and an audience of about 100 residents were present. Washington also used the meeting to hold a rally to stop the maglev after he concluded the legislative review. (See the April 24 issue.)

Washington thanked Van Hollen for his statement and his efforts in pushing for Abrego Garcia's return to the U.S. which both Trump and Bukele have repeatedly refused in spite of the Supreme Court ruling that he should be brought back to the U.S. Van Hollen said that Trump, with Bukele's help, is "tearing down the due process that is core to our country," and warned that his defiance of court orders "is only going to lead to further despair for us all."

"I will continue to fight tooth and nail to defend every Marylander from Trump and Musk's law-breaking administration," Van Hollen wrote, a pledge that was echoed by the lawmakers present at the meeting.

Immigrant Rights

One such lawmaker, State Delegate Nicole Williams, shared bills that she and her colleagues, including Delegate Ashanti Martinez, chair of the Maryland Legislative Latino Caucus, had fought to pass for that very purpose. "We believe in due process here in the State of Maryland," Williams said.

A crowded room for the post-legislative roundup and maglev meeting

One bill that passed successfully designates certain places such as schools, libraries, churches and hospitals as sensitive locations. The bill also directs the attorney general to guide those institutions on how they should respond to deportation efforts by U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) agents at said locations.

Another bill that passed restricts the ability of the federal government to obtain personal data from state agencies by requiring them to first provide a warrant.

Williams noted that other bills failed to pass, such as one banning 287(g) agreements in Maryland, which allow local and state law enforcement to act on behalf of ICE. Martinez said that they're building momentum to pass the bill in the future.

Martinez also said, "We had to do everything that we could as a state within our rights to protect our neighbors," referring to immigrants, who make up about 17 percent of Maryland's population, numbering over a million in 2023, according to the Comptroller of Maryland. "We had to make sure that our policy reflected people."

FBI Headquarters

Officials at the meeting said they had to fight Trump on other issues, too, such as the relocation of the FBI headquarters to Greenbelt, which is in jeopardy since Trump said he is "not going to let that happen." Instead, he wants to build another FBI building in Washington, D.C.

"We are still fighting tooth and nail here in the state for the FBI headquarters. We have to," Washington said. They have to because, to Washington, the proposal is fleeting – "a once in a generation opportunity."

Washington noted that the state has already allocated $200 million just for infrastructure improvements around the site of the proposed headquarters, and there is still work to be done.

"This is our moment in time to make a significant difference in our community," he said.

Prince George's County Council Member Ingrid Watson stood behind Washington's rally to fight for the headquarters in Greenbelt, but also addressed additional federal policies that carry significant local impacts.

Other Challenges

Watson emphasized that the state budget, with a deficit of about $3 billion, is the most difficult that the state has faced in years, but the challenges it poses are compounded by executive orders from the Trump administration. She said federal layoffs could have long-term impacts on the tax base and economic stability of the county, which is home to nearly 73,000 federal workers. "We are looking at the prospect of layoffs and closures across the state, all by the federal government," including NASA Goddard, Watson said.

Van Hollen wrote in his statement that he and his colleagues are "working to defend federal workers from illegal firings, defend Medicaid and Social Security from outrageous budget cuts and preserve the rule of law in the face of Trump's tyrannical attacks."

GARF Donation Drive Runs Through May 17

The Greenbelt Alliance for Reproductive Freedom (GARF) is holding its fourth bra and menstrual product donation drive through Saturday, May 17. This year the city's Pink Pantry Project, a program of Greenbelt Assistance in Living, will receive the donated menstrual products. The nonprofit I Support the Girls will receive the bras. New and/or gently used bras of any size or type and new sealed menstrual products will be accepted. Large pads with wings are the period product in highest demand. Gently used means clean, no large stains, broken clasps or straps, holes, stretched out elastic, smoke smell even after washing, missing underwire or underwire poking through. Other items such as period panties, menstrual cups and new underpants in unopened packages are also needed. GARF will be on the Co-op Supermarket ramp on Saturday, May 17 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. to receive donations. Donations can also be dropped in bins at the Co-op Supermarket, Aquatic & Fitness Center, Youth Center and Community Center throughout the drive until May 17. Winning Raiders Softball Team Prepared for Great Post Season

by Patrick Gleason

After a run to the state championship game last year, the Eleanor Roosevelt Raiders softball team has maintained their momentum this season. With a 15-0-1 record thus far, the Raiders close out the regular season on Friday, May 2, against the Suitland Rams. The 4:30 p.m. home game will culminate a dominant regular season for coach Delton Fuller's squad. Led by senior shortstop Desiree Fuller and senior pitcher Natalia Jarquin, the Raiders have not been tested by county opposition, punctuated by their 22-0 victory over the Bowie Bulldogs.

Senior Nikki Lilja has moved from centerfield to first base this season while senior catcher Samiah Smith remains a stronghold behind the plate. Bree Mullikin bats second and plays third for the Raiders while Bailey Bernhard, Jaiden Smith and Grace Audu complete Roosevelt's outfield. Finally, junior Addison Green fields second base for a team primed for another deep postseason run. Over spring break, the Raiders never rested, besting Severn Run 25-0, St. John's 11-0 and North County 5-3, while tying Century 5-5. They began preparations for the county championship game the next week, followed by the start of the state playoffs.

Last spring, Roosevelt defeated Richard Montgomery and Perry Hall in the state quarterfinals and state semifinals before falling to Leonardtown in the state final. With a senior-laden lineup replete with playoff experience, Roosevelt is ready to build on last season's success.

Progress Made on Outdoor Pool

by Anna Bedford-Dillow

Greenbelt swimmers are awaiting the reopening of the outdoor pool with even more eagerness than usual. This year it will not only signal the start of summer in Greenbelt but for many residents it will also mean the resumption of pool access, swim team practices, water classes and more. The indoor pool has been closed since April 7 for necessary renovations, which are expected to take until the end of September. Consequently, efforts have been underway to open the outdoor pool earlier than the traditional Memorial Day weekend date and to keep it open past Labor Day, until the indoor pool is once again available.

The outdoor pool, pictured here on April 29, has been drained and is in the process of being cleaned.

Construction work continues at the indoor pool, photographed here on April 29.

City’s Touch-a-Truck Event Delights All in Beltway Plaza

The City of Greenbelt held its first ever Touch-a-Truck event on Saturday, April 26 in the parking lot of Beltway Plaza. Among the agencies that brought vehicles for children and adults alike to check out and climb into were Greenbelt Police Department, Greenbelt Volunteer Fire Department and Public Works. Rides in a cherry picker were among the most sought-after activities, and many also searched for all the booths and trucks to complete a scavenger hunt. Plenty of horns were sounded throughout.

in picking up trash along the stream behind the school, teaching students a sense of ecological responsibility. Sterkin and Todd-Jones partner with the Alice Ferguson Foundation, a public charity based in Accokeek that promotes ecological responsibility and educates young people about those principles, according to its website. The foundation aids the event by providing the gloves, bags and other supplies (in coordination with the City of Greenbelt) for the students and volunteers, said Sterkin. In return, Sterkin and Todd-Jones send them data gleaned from what they discovered.

The day started with the fourth graders and ended with the third-grade class cleaning up what remained both in the stream and around the watershed. Students were separated into groups of five to 10 and paired with one of the volunteers – including Robert Goldberg-Strassler of the Greenbelt Plogs group – aiding the educators. The groups were armed with gloves, a trash grabber and two bags (a yellow one for garbage, blue for recycling). The groups trekked back behind the school with their equipment and waded into the water and the surrounding area to hunt for debris.

Students found all sorts of objects from glass bottles to shopping carts filled with waterlogged leaves and cardboard. Larger objects like tires were also found in the stream. A group of students even found a child’s car seat. It took the whole small group to carry it to the trash area. Sadly, that’s not even the wildest thing Sterkin and her students have found over the years. Sterkin said they’ve found couches, mattresses and even a small motorcycle. “If you can imagine it, we’ve pretty much have found it in the stream,” Sterkin said.

The annual event empowers students to understand the responsibility each person has to keep their community clean and healthy. It teaches them personal responsibility, as well as other useful skills such as teamwork and communication. The students get to learn valuable skills and lessons with real life experience while improving their community in the process. “That’s one of my favorite parts, just seeing them help each other and kind of like leading the charge,” Sterkin said. “... It’s just a great experience for them to kind of build that leadership role and help each other.”

The students enjoyed it so much that many disappointed sighs echoed the whistle alerting them to the end of their 45-minute cleanup session and the eventual continuance of their day in the classroom. The children’s wet boots sloshed on their way back into the school to change and celebrate by devouring pizza before returning to their regular class schedule.

Ryan Colasanti is a student at the Philip Merrill College of Journalism interning at the Greenbelt News Review.
